Integrate and Configure Model

By integrating SQLite into our code, it would make it easier to configure and display information based on who the user is. SQLite makes retrieve specified quick and easy, especially considering we is code we could reuse and not have to write from scratch. The time saved on this data retrieval can then be put forth into enhancing the actual classes itself. A conditional could be written to prompt or display certain information, using SQLite, based on the user's credentials.

SQLite Documentation